

TAFT IS TOLD HE IS CHOSEN

Cincinnati The Scene Of The Official Announcement To The Republican Nominee.

OUTLINES POLICY OF REPUBLICANS

In Speech Which Covers Entire Situation The Nominee Accepts The Honor Given Him By The G. O. P.—City Takes On Festive Appearance.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cincinnati, O., July 28.—Amid the blare of brass bands, the stirring strains of martial music and the buzz of enthusiastic crowds, Judge William H. Taft was formally notified today of his nomination for the Presidency by the republican national convention which was held in Chicago last month.

The rally, in point of numbers and enthusiasm far antedating any demonstration of like character ever held

In Cincinnati, the event was in every detail a most glorious and gratifying success.

At an early hour salutes of cannon were fired from the four hill tops of the city, which brought the whole population to a condition of wakefulness. All morning great crowds of people poured into the city from the suburban towns on both sides of the Ohio river, while every train brought in large numbers from every city of consequence in Ohio and the neighboring states.

Cincinnati expected a big crowd and had prepared to entertain. The entire business portion of the city was handsomely decorated with flags, bannery and bunting, and presented a gala appearance. With the arrival of every train delegations headed by hands poured into the streets and were shown to the headquarters at the Hotel Minton by members of the active reception committee. Particular attention was paid to the welcome of the members of the notification committee, the members of which represented every state and territory.

One conspicuous feature of the demonstration was the prevalence of Taft and Sherman badges. Nearly every one of the tens of thousands of people seen about the streets wore some insignia of his devotion to the republican cause. They were everywhere.

Large parties arrived during the forenoon from Pittsburg, Louisville and Indianapolis. Columbus went down in delegation numbering more than 1,000 enthusiasts, headed by the famous Buckeye Republican Club. Cleveland, Toledo, Youngstown, Dayton and Canton were much in evidence, and Hamilton and other nearby cities and towns almost depopulated themselves. Some of the delegations contained large numbers of negroes, whose presence was hailed with joy by the rally managers as proof of the falsity of the statements that the negro race was dissatisfied with the republican ticket.

SAENGERFEST COST TWENTY THOUSAND

There is a Deficiency of Five Thousand Dollars to be Made Up.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Crosse, Wis., July 28.—The receipts of the saengerfest held here last week were not sufficient to cover the expenses hence the committee will be called upon for about $5,000. The cost of entertaining the fest was $20,000.

When the airships get into general use our Custom-house officials will have the time of their lives trying to collect the tariff duties.

FLORIDA WILL HAVE PROHIBITION TICKET

Unless Men Elected to the Next Legislature Get Back on Their Promises.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Tampa, Fla., July 28.—A prohibition agitation in Florida appears inevitable, unless many of the state senators and representatives violate an obligation made in the recent campaign and go back upon their declarations publicly made since the primary which was held last month. The constitution of Florida provides for local option, and prohibition is impossible unless the constitution is amended by a majority of the votes of the people. The prohibitionists are confident that if the question comes to a vote they will carry the state by a big majority.

NATIONAL DENTAL ASSOCIATION MET

Three Thousand Dentists Present at Opening of Twelfth Meeting of Association.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., July 28.—Three thousand dentists representing every state in the union are attending the twelfth annual convention of the National Dental Association in Boston. Following the meeting of several affiliated bodies held here during the past few days, the association proper opened its sessions this morning.

The visitors were welcomed by Governor Gould, Mayor Hibbard, Dean Richardson of the Harvard medical school and President Hamilton of Tufts College. The response was made by Burton Lee Thorpe of St. Louis, national corresponding secretary of the association. The sessions are to continue until Friday noon, and will consist of section meetings with discussions by prominent dentists, essays, and chair, table and surgical clinics. An elaborate social program also has been prepared for the visiting dentists and the ladies who accompany them.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT OPENS AT CLINTON

Iowa State Firemen's Tournament Will Be in Progress Until End of Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Clinton, Iowa, July 28.—Today opened in what promises to be one of the largest and most notable gatherings of firemen ever held in Iowa. The occasion is the annual tournament of the Iowa State Firemen's Association, which will be in progress until the end of the week.

Today was given over to the reception of the visitors and a meeting of the board of control. The arriving delegations found the city in gala attire in their honor. The decorations are unusually fine, and include public, private and business buildings.

The tournament parade will take place tomorrow morning and in the afternoon the program of races and other prize contests will be inaugurated. Leading features will be a free-for-all race, open to the world, with a purse of $700, and two steeple races.

POSTMASTERS GATHER IN MILWAUKEE TODAY

State Convention of Fourth Class Postmasters in Two Days' Session.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., July 28.—A state convention of the fourth-class postmasters of Wisconsin began in Milwaukee today and will continue over tomorrow. A good attendance marked the opening of the convention this afternoon.

LA FOLLETTE SPOKE AT THE CHAUTAUQUA

Did Not Talk Politics But Gave an Address for $500 Per Afternoon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 28.—Senator R. M. La Follette lectured at the Mountain Lake Assembly this afternoon, but nothing of political importance was expected. People are waiting for him to express his views on the slush of embezzlement and commission of the republican national convention, as indicated in the platform, but inquiry yesterday met with the assurance that the senator was speaking just as any Chautauqua lecturer, for the compensation of $500, and was not expected to deliver himself on the national platform of the republican party.

While La Follette had competition as a drawing card, the Racine circus, in improving word of its circus, and the Milwaukee is now coming and it is expected she will sail as soon as that is completed.

INJURED OFFICIAL SLOWLY IMPROVING

La Crosse Fire Chief Injured While Going to a Fire—Is Slightly Better.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Mr. Bradfield suffered from sprained wrists and from bruises while Fay's skull was fractured.

TEXAS MAYORS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION

Welcome Address Was Given This Afternoon by Mayor Highsmith of Mineral Wells.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Mineral Wells, Texas, July 28.—The chief cities of the state were represented here today at the opening of the convention of the Mayors' Association of Texas. Features of the biennial session this afternoon included an address of welcome by Mayor Highsmith, responses by Mayors Hays of Dallas and Marrs of Amarillo, the annual address of the president, John H. Bonner of Tyler, and a discussion of street paving and building, which was participated in by representatives of Sherman, Weatherford, Austin and other cities. The convention will be of three days' duration.

SENATOR VILAS HAS NOT IMPROVED ANY

Little Change in His Condition Since He Was First Taken Ill Last Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 28.—While official bulletins indicate some slight improvement in the condition of Colonel William E. Vilas, who for eight days has been almost totally unconscious as the result of an attack of cerebral hemorrhage, inside information is to the effect that there is exceedingly small hope for recovery, and if death should befall the Wisconsin ex-senator and cabinet member will never again be possessed of his mental vigor and strength.

Madison doctors seem in agreement that the patient may linger in his unconsciousness for possibly several weeks, but that he is almost likely to become weaker and finally pass away. L. M. Hunka, son-in-law of Colonel Vilas, said yesterday that so far as he could observe the patient was in exactly the same condition as a week ago when the stroke was first sustained. However, the attending physicians declare that there are times when the patient gives unmistakable signs of understanding directions and that he attempts to obey instructions as to taking nourishment and opening his eyes and mouth.

DRAFT OF PLATFORM WAS SUBMITTED TO CONVENTION

Subcommittees To Resolutions Committee Makes Report To Independence Convention.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, July 28.—The tentative draft of the platform of the independent party submitted by a subcommittee to the resolutions committee of the people, initiative and referendum, right of recall, legislation against all forms of corrupt practices in elections, prohibition against the use of money in elections except for meetings, literature, etc. It denounces the extravagance of the federal administration; the overcapitalization of industrial enterprises; the arbitrary use of the writ of injunction and contempt proceedings are condemned.

It favors the enactment of legislation prohibiting the blacklisting of employees, it favors an employers' liability bill, the federal inspection of railroads, federal inspection of grain, the creation of a department of labor, the gradual reduction of the tariff, government ownership of public utilities, postal savings banks, suppression of bucket shops, exclusion of Asiatic immigration, a larger navy, the election of senators by the people, and a graduated income tax. It denounces the manufacture of prison-made goods and all combinations for the restraint of trade, and child labor.

RYAN OUSTED BELMONT FROM HIS OWN RAILROAD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York City, July 28.—No more startling disclosure has been made to the financial world of recent times than came to light with the deposing of August Belmont from the control of the Interborough-Metropolitan Traction lines and the establishing of Thomas F. Ryan in his place. This means that Thomas F. Ryan's absolute control practically all of the traction lines in New York city, including the subways, which were August Belmont's pet scheme, the elevated lines and the surface lines. He is king of the passenger traffic in this great metropolis. The system of high finance by which Ryan ousted August Belmont and his followers may never become public reading, but it is no

York establishes him more firmly as one of the great financiers. With the entrance of Ryan and his manager, Theodore Shonts, comes a radical eruption in the offices of the Interborough-Metropolitan company, which has already deposed Edward P. Bryan, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, who was given a check for $25,000, a year's salary, in advance, and informed that his services were no longer needed.

ERECTING COSTLY MEMORIAL TO WIFE

Edward Rutledge, Millionaire Lumberman, to Erect Mausoleum in Beloit Cemetery.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., July 28.—Edward Rutledge, lumber king of Chippewa Falls, supposed to be worth $18,000,000, is building a $10,000 mausoleum in the Beloit city cemetery as a memorial to his wife, who was formerly Miss Hannah Barr of this city. Work has just been started on the structure.

The tomb is to be built of Barre, Vt., granite and lined with white Italian marble. It is to be 11x15 feet in size and to have a bronze gate.

Mr. Rutledge had two ideas in view in selecting the Beloit cemetery for the burial place for his family. In the first place his wife was a Beloit girl and secondly he wanted a lot in a cemetery owned by a city instead of by an association. The beauty of location of the Beloit burying ground also appealed to him.

H. M. Barr, brother of Mrs. Rutledge, is superintending the construction.

START GRADING FOR A BELT LINE ROAD

Interstate Transfer Railway Company to Encircle Superior Very Soon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Superior, Wis., July 28.—Grading has started on the line of the Interstate Transfer Railway company, the belt line road of the United States Steel company in this county. A crew of graders is now working at Pokegama Junction and the operations will be extensive from this time on. The Interstate Transfer is the medium through which the developments on this side of the bay will be made possible. The site for the steel plant itself consists of about 1,500 acres of land on the Minnesota side of Spirit Lake, while the auxiliary industries are expected to be located in this line of the Interstate road in Douglas county.

Complete Circuit

Irvine L. Lenroot, a candidate for nomination for congress on the republican ticket, has returned here after another trip throughout the district during which he made a large number of speeches and visited many towns and cities of the district. Mr. Lenroot apparently feels better over the situation than at any time although he has been confident of success ever since he entered into the campaign. From all over the district reports continue to come in as to the way the congressional situation looks and they are of such nature to make Mr. Lenroot and his friends believe that he will be the next representative from the Eleventh.

GOULD GLAD THAT HARRIMAN HAS IT

Head of the Family Says That He Wants No Greater Pleasure.

New York, July 28.—George J. Gould on returning from Europe today said nothing would give him greater pleasure than to have E. H. Harriman in direct control of the Gould roads.

NOLAN'S FIGHT HAS IMPORTANT BEARING

Politicians Are Watching Political Matters in First Congressional District.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., July 28.—The aggressive and effective campaign being made by Thomas S. Nolan of Janesville for the republican congressional nomination in the first district is attracting much attention in the capital city, and while opinion is divided as to the result of the contest against Congressman Cooper, the fight is deemed of great importance as showing whether or not the stand taken by Senator La Follette at the republican national convention, through the endorsement of Congressman Cooper, is approved by a majority of the people of Wisconsin. What local elements there may be in the campaign are not well understood here, but the indication of popular approval or disapproval of the La Follette rebellion against the action of the national convention, is it believed, will come in the primary election contest in the first district. It is recognized that Mr. Nolan will be helped by a feeling that Mr. Cooper has had his share of the congressional tenure, that Rock county should be accorded the right of producing the candidate, that Mr. Nolan will be helped by his personal popularity in his own populous county and by the good impression he made in other counties of the district while making his late and hopeless campaign two years ago after M. G. Jeffries had withdrawn from the contest, but the main fact which will be read out of primary races in the first district will be the recognition given the republican voters to the conduct of the La Follette people at the national convention. This is believed to be the more important in view of the fact that Senator La Follette is still "reconstructed." He has served notice on the nominee of the national convention that the platform is unsatisfactory in that it fails to contain the so-called La Follette plank. If the primary results in the nomination of Mr. Nolan or the cutting down of the Cooper support to a marked degree, it will be concluded that the republican voters do not care to stand out against the judgment of the national convention.

DR. HOWARD S. TAYLOR

Of Chicago, prominently mentioned as a vice-presidential nominee by the Independent Party

Chicago, the home of the convention and the national seat of the party committee, also has a candidate for the presidential nomination in Dr. Howard S. Taylor, poet, economist and reformer. Dr. Taylor has from the first, been ardent in the cause of the party and its local growth of power may be credited to him as largely to any other single worker. Dr. Taylor has many friends among the delegates from other states and has been secured hearty support if he wants to accept the nomination for the vice-presidency but it would seem his eyes are turned toward the higher office.

Dr. Taylor lives in Ottumwa, though his work as secretary of the committee keeps him at the Chicago headquarters most of the time. He is a self-made man, having elevated himself by his own efforts from a telegraph operator in an Iowa railroad station to one of the most powerful positions in the party which Bryan now owns, and to still greater distinction of having kept himself so far above reproach, even in the inner cabinet of rotten democracy, that he was chosen for the same post of influence in the new party.

THOMAS L. HIGEN

Of Massachusetts, likely nominee of the Independent Party for presidential honors.

Mr. Higen first became a figure in politics when he entered a four-cornered race for the governorship of his state and finished second, outstripping his democratic opponent and planting a banner of the Independent party as the second of the great national parties in the old rock-strewn state of Boston republicans. Mr. Higen is known throughout the nation as one of the independent off-reformers who has stubbornly fought the Rockefeller trust and has withstood its advances as well as its attacks and remained honestly in the open market.

CHARLES A. WALSH.

Prominently mentioned as presidential nominee of the Independent Party.

Charles A. Walsh, of Iowa, now secretary of the national committee of the party, who held the same high office for 12 years in the democratic party, including the campaigns of 1896 and 1904, is one of the most imposing contestants.

Mr. Taft's Address.

In reply to Senator Warner, Mr. Taft spoke at considerable length, his speech being a carefully considered statement of the issues of the day and his position thereon. He began with a discussion of the Roosevelt policies and gave the president high praise for what he has accomplished. Continuing, he said:

"The chief function of the next administration in my judgment is distinct from and a progressive development which has been performed by President Roosevelt.

"The chief function of the next administration is to complete and perfect the machinery by which these standards may be maintained by which the law breakers may be properly restrained and punished, but which shall operate with sufficient accuracy and dispatch to interfere with legitimate business as little as possible. Such machinery is not now adequate. Under the present rate bill, and under all its amendments, the burden of the interstate commerce commission in supervising and regulating the operation of the railroads of this country has grown so heavy that it is utterly impossible for that tribunal to hear and dispose, in any reasonable time, of the many complaints, queries and issues that are brought before it for decision. It ought to be relieved of its jurisdiction as an executive, directing body, and its functions should be limited to the quasi-judicial investigation of complaints by individuals, and by a department of the government charged with the executive business of supervising the operation of railroads.

Railway Traffic Agreements.

"It is agreeable to note that the Republican platform expressly and the Democratic platform implicitly approve an amendment to the interstate commerce law, by which interstate railroads may make useful traffic agreements, if approved by the commission. This has been strongly recommended by President Roosevelt, and will make for the benefit of the business.

"Some of the suggestions of the Democratic platform relate really to this subordinate and ancillary machinery to which I have referred. Take for instance, the so-called physical valuation of railroads. It is clear that the sum of all rates or receipts of a railway, less proper expenses, should be limited to a fair profit upon the reasonable value of its property, and that if the sum exceeds this measure, it ought to be reduced. The difficulty in enforcing the principle is in ascertaining what is the reasonable value of the company's property, and in fixing what is a fair profit. It is clear that the physical value of a railroad and its plant is an element to be given weight in determining its full value; but as President Roosevelt in his Indianapolis speech and the supreme court have pointed out, the value of the railroad as a going concern, including its good will, due to efficiency of service, and many other circumstances, may be much greater than the value of its tangible property and it is the former that measures the investment on which a fair profit must be allowed.

Then, too, the question what is a fair profit is one involving not only the rate of interest usually earned on normally safe investments, but also a sufficient allowance to make up for the risk of loss both of capital and interest in the original outlay. These considerations will have justified the company in imposing charges high enough to secure a fair income on the enterprise as a whole.

National Control of Corporations.
"Another suggestion in respect to subordinate and ancillary machinery necessary to carry out Republican policies is that of the incorporation under national law or the licensing by national license or enforced registry of companies engaged in interstate trade. The fact is that nearly all corporations doing a commercial business are engaged in interstate commerce, and if they all were required to take out a federal license or a federal charter, the burden upon the interstate business of the country would become intolerable.

"It is necessary, therefore, to devise some means for classifying and insuring federal supervision of such corporations as have the power and temptation to effect restraints of interstate trade and monopolies. Such corporations constitute a very small percentage of all engaged in interstate business.

"With such classification in view, Mr. Roosevelt recommended an amendment in the anti-trust law, known as the Hepburn bill, which provided for voluntary classification, and created a strong motive therefore by granting immunity from prosecution for reasonable restrictions of interstate trade to all corporations which would register and submit themselves to the publicity regulation of the department of commerce and labor.

Labor and Injunctions.
In relation to injunctions in labor suits, Mr. Taft said:

"To give to employers their proper position in such a controversy is to enable them to maintain themselves against employers having great capital, they may well unite, because in union there is strength and without it each individual laborer and employer would be helpless. The promotion of industrial peace through the instrumentality of the trade agreement is often one of the results of such union when intelligently conducted.

"There is a large body of laborers, however, skilled and unskilled, who are not organized into unions. Their rights before the law are exactly the same as those of the union men, and are to be protected with the same care and watchfulness.

is to injure their employers' property, to injure their employers' business by use of threats or methods of physical duress against those who would work for him or deal with him or by carrying on what is sometimes known as a secondary boycott against his customers or those with whom he deals in business. All those who sympathize with them may unite to aid them in their struggle, but they may not, through the instrumentality of a threatened or actual boycott, compel third persons against their will and having no interest in their controversy to come to their assistance. These principles have for a great many years been settled by the courts of this country."

FAVORS SMALL SHIPPERS.

Important Decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, July 28.—According to a decision by the interstate commerce commission Monday, shippers may combine small quantities of freight of various ownership, either by arrangement among themselves or through the medium of a forwarding agency and ship the combined lot at the relatively lower rates applicable to large shipments.

The commission decided in favor of the smaller shippers upon the ground that the ownership of property transported for shipment cannot be made a test as to the applicability of the carriers' rates. The interstate commerce law forbids discrimination between shippers, and the fact that one shipper tenders a "bulked shipment" made up of property of various ownership consolidated before delivery to the carrier will not justify the carrier in making a different charge than for a shipment of similar character tendered by a shipper who is also the owner.

Mayflower Goes to Caribbean.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 28.—Because of the immediate necessity for gunboats and small cruisers in the Caribbean sea, where there is trouble in Hayti, strained relations with Venezuela and unrest in Central America, President Roosevelt has dispensed with the use of the cruiser yacht Mayflower for the remainder of the summer. Monday the Mayflower, in command of Thomas Snowden, left Oyster Bay bound for southern waters.

Dragoons Charge Strikers.

Vincennes, July 28.—The strike of workmen, which was marked by the killing of two of their number on June 2 by gendarmes, was renewed Monday, with many acts of violence. The strikers destroyed a foot bridge over the river and attempted to burn down their employers' plant. They were repulsed by repeated charges of dragoons.

Oil Company Fined $10,000.

Little Rock, Ark., July 28.—The several suits pending against the Waters-Pierce Oil company in the circuit court here, charging violation of the anti-trust laws of the state and illegal discrimination, were terminated Monday when the attorneys for the defendant company agreed to a compromise penalty of $10,000.

PRINCE AT AMERICAN LOURDES.

Sees Crippled Pilgrims at Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

Quebec, Que., July 28.—The prince of Wales Monday witnessed the curious spectacle of hundreds of pilgrims, many of them on crutches, crowding the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, the American Lourdes, seeking relief from their sufferings.

The prince had been entertained at luncheon at St. Joseph's, where the Laval university has a summer establishment. He returned in an automobile, the route taking him through Ste. Anne de Beaupre. Here the enthusiasm of the pilgrims was at its height in celebration of Ste. Anne's day. The prince's visit was unexpected and he entered the church as many of the cripples were at the altar receiving the touch of the holy relics. As the prince entered the church the organ played "God Save the King." On leaving the church the prince was followed by crowds of the pilgrims, who beseeched his auto to shake his hand.

WANTS TO GREET ATHLETES.

President Eager to Shake Hands of Olympic Victors.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 28.—President Roosevelt Monday in a message which he sent to the American commissioner of the Olympic games in London, expressed a desire to shake hands with everyone of the men whose feats placed the flag of the United States at the head of the colors of all nations in the athletic games which ended Saturday. "That he will gratify this desire there is no doubt," Secretary Loch, when asked whether the president would go to New York when the victorious American team arrived there and take part in the ovation which is planned in their honor, said it was too early yet to say in just what way the president would extend his welcome. He asked how many men there are in the team and it is thought that he had in mind plans for a reception of the athletes at Sagamore Hill.

Fire at Mine in Copper Country.

Calumet, Mich., July 28.—In a spectacular fire, which could be seen for miles around in the copper district, the No. 2 shaft at the Tamarack Jr. branch of the Osceola consolidated mine entered a loss of approximately $50,000.

Infidel's Testimony Barred.

Jackson, Miss., Apr. 28.—The dying declaration of an infidel is not competent testimony in a murder trial, according to a decision rendered by the supreme court Monday afternoon.

LAUNCH SINKS; SEVERAL DROWN

PITTSBURGH STEEL WORKERS PERISH IN THE RIVER.

THREE KNOWN TO BE DEAD

Boat Carrying Men to Their Homes Is Swamped on Its First Trip Across the Monongahela.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 28.—A gasoline launch, "The Merry Widow," carrying from 16 to 20 workmen from the Jones & Laughlin Steel company's plant across the Monongahela river to their homes in the south side section of the city, was capsized shortly after six o'clock Monday night in 20 feet of water by waves from a coal boat. The following men are known to be drowned:

Honry Schaffer, 18 years old, half owner of the launch.

George Kimberly, 26 years old.

Thomas Rhynderek, 52 years old.

Whether others were drowned is not known. The police are endeavoring to ascertain the names of the men who were in the launch when the accident occurred. Considerable confusion prevailed and up to nine o'clock at night only a few of the men who had been in the launch had been located safe.

Was Boat's First Trip.
Several months ago Honry Schaffer, one of the known victims, and Anthony Charles, both formerly employed in the steel plant, purchased the launch for the purpose of transporting the mill men to their homes across the river. The idea met with great success among the men and "The Merry Widow" started Monday night on its initial trip. When nearing the opposite shore the launch encountered the waves of a large coal boat which suddenly swamped the little craft throwing all into the river.

It is believed that, as the accident occurred near the shore, most of the occupants escaped.

Rhynderek, who was drowned, was a lay Methodist preacher.

TYPHOON SWEEPS HONG-KONG.

Many Chinese Residents Are Killed and Steamers Stranded.

Manila, July 28.—A destructive typhoon swept over Hong-Kong at midnight Monday night, causing heavy loss of life among the Chinese residents and among many buildings. The typhoon caused tempestuous seas which resulted in several steamers being driven ashore. There was no loss of life reported among the foreign inhabitants.

The crew of the British cruiser Astraea performed gallant service in attempting to rescue the Chinese crew of a derelict junk. After battling desperately in the mountainous seas for over an hour the Britishers succeeded in rescuing six out of a total of 13.

Double Murder in Michigan.

Bozette City, Mich., July 28.—Great excitement was caused here Monday night by a report reaching the local police officials that a well-known resident named Thomas Dickinson and another man had been found murdered with their throats cut from ear to ear, 20 miles from this city on the bank of the Manistee river.

Bryan a Knight of Ak-Sar-Ben.

Omaha, Neb., July 28.—William J. Bryan was admitted Monday night to the mysteries of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, an order composed of the business men of Omaha and the state of Nebraska. A large number of Lincoln business men came to Omaha to witness and participate in the initiation.

Train Derailed; Twenty Hurt.

Snell Ste. Marie, Mich., July 28.—A passenger train derailed on the Soo from Minneapolis left the track Monday afternoon four miles out, three cars jumping into the ditch. Twenty were injured, but none fatally.

Society Girl and Chauffeur Killed When Train Hits Car.

Glen Head, L. I., July 28.—Two persons are dead and two seriously injured as the result of a collision here Monday night between an automobile and the "Millionaire's Express" of the Long Island railroad, a train that carries many wealthy New Yorkers to their summer homes on Long Island.

Miss Leigh Townsend, a New York girl of social prominence, who was a passenger in the automobile, died a few minutes after the accident and Charles Smith, the chauffeur, died en route to the hospital. The other occupants of the automobile were Miss Beatrice Eddy, 22 years old, of Brooklyn, and Lloyd Robinson, 20, son of Charles Robinson, a New York banker and owner of the automobile.

Lloyd Robinson was taking the automobile party to his father's summer home at Sea Cliff when the accident occurred. The locomotive struck the automobile fairly in the middle with such terrific force that the machine buckled around the nose of the engine and clung there.

The passengers of the automobile were hurled in all directions. Miss Eddy narrowly escaped rolling under the wheels of the train. She was cut about the hands and face and received probably fatal injuries.

This Time It Was Different.

"To tell the truth, Dr. Richards," said the wife of one of our most prosperous merchants, "I have neglected my teeth for years, since Dr. Richards filled them with teeth for me."

"He hurt me so dreadfully that I laughed and cried in almost hysterical when at last he let me out of that chair."

"Well," said Dr. Richards, "how was it this time?"

"You never hurt me one bit," said she and the Dr. had just finished filling a lot of her teeth with gold.

It is very pleasant to Dr. Richards to receive these kind words from bright, intelligent people who know when they receive good services and appreciate them.

The multitude of hearty endorsements given him in this city by people who had tried him and found his work really painless, makes him stand out clearly among his fellows as the man to go to for real painless dentistry in Janesville.

His prices are also reasonable, which is not a bad feature for the one who pays the bill.

CITY OFFICIALS ON A TOUR OF SALOONS

Last Evening Found a General Disposition to Comply With Wine-room Ordinance.

Mayor Stewart H. Hollister, Chief of Police Geo. M. Appleby, and Aldermen Geo. O. Henschel and J. W. Clark of the common council license committee made a tour of inspection of the fifty saloons last evening to ascertain what steps had been taken to comply with the ordinance relating to wine-rooms. Strictly interpreted the measure forbids partitions or booths of any description but there is no disposition among the city officials, at the present time, to start any "wrecking" crusade on harmless open "stalls" which have been put up solely for the comfort of male patrons.

The only purpose of the law is to prevent women of doubtful character from drinking in comparative seclusion with the men, and this can be prevented if one side of the booth remains open so that any person or floor passing through the place may see everything that is going on. In accordance with suggestions along this line, doors and booths had been removed in all but three or four instances and in the latter cases, the proprietors, after receiving an explanation of what was wanted, manifested a willingness to do what was expected of them without delay. The "wine-rooms" still here is confined to a comparatively few saloons and it is believed that the present word to the wise will prove sufficient.

them. After purchasing the keg he drove about town for a while and wound up at the barn on his latest street premises, where he inserted a spigot and sat down, dipper in hand, to enjoy a little "party" by his lonesome. His wife espyed him there and promptly telephoned the police station shortly after two o'clock this afternoon. Officers John Brown, Patrick Manning, and Peter Champion went forth with the patrol wagon and after putting Mr. Dooley aboard, rolled in the keg after him. "What along the dipper?" shouted the prisoner as the party started off for the city hall. Protesting indignantly but in vain, Dooley parted company with the keg at the police station, and was placed in one of the little cells for the afternoon.

OBITUARY.

William Hogan
Word had not been received this afternoon as to when the remains of William Hogan would reach Janesville. If they arrive this evening the funeral will be held tomorrow morning from St. Patrick's church. If, however, they do not arrive until Wednesday morning, the funeral will be held Friday morning.

Jennie E. Hayner
The remains of the late Jennie E. Hayner arrived here this morning and after a short funeral service at the grave were interred in the Oak Hill cemetery. Rev. J. H. Clippett officiated. A number of relatives and friends from Chicago accompanied the remains to Janesville.

KICKERS' KOLUM
A pointer to some of the well-to-do women of this city may be all that is necessary to cause them to realize the great injustice they are doing the dressmakers by simply disregarding their bills. It has been called to my attention at different times that some women, plenty able to pay, seem to have no conscience about letting the dressmaker look for her pay for a year or two. A dressmaker usually has no capital, has to pay her help promptly, also her board, and she must wear clothes; she has to shop and figure to make ends meet, while her customers are swelling around at receptions, etc., in dresses that have not been paid for. A dressmaker, for fear of offending a customer and losing her trade, cannot insist on the payment of a bill as a businesswoman would, but has to possess herself in silence and get her money (so much needed) when she can. Surely this is not right. Does the head of the house realize this condition? Pay your dressmaker promptly; she works hard for her money and her bill is due the minute she delivers the work.

ADD PAVILION TO GIFT TO THE CITY

William Irvine Makes His Gift of Park Complete by Adding New Building.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Chippewa Falls, Wis., July 27.—William Irvine, manager of the Chippewa Lumber & Boom Co., today presented Irvine park with sufficient money to build a large pavilion. The structure will be built of concrete reinforcing, cement and metal and will be one of the finest in the state. Mr. Irvine has been instrumental in securing 161 acres for park purposes and presented the tract to the city and recently cancelled $5,000 worth of bonds which he held against the park.

A Forlorn Man
Seth Ferguson, commonly known as the "hunger of Chippewa City," and one of the early residents of Chippewa city, was today ordered from the city because he had been arrested four times in one week for being drunk. He has been a longer for forty-five years and at one time was well off financially. He now has no home and claims that he is disowned by his relatives.

Was Held Up
George Bender was held up at Holcombe, near here, and offering resistance was badly cut with a razor. He was also struck in the face a number of times. Bender succeeded in getting away, and ran for assistance, but the highwayman escaped.

Ziegler's Big Cash Clothing Sale the Talk of the Town

That exceptional price offers in high grade clothing attracts the shrewd and economical buyers is proven by the numbers of people who have attended this gigantic $9.00 Cash Suit Sale the past two days. Buying has been active, and many a person has congratulated himself upon his good luck in securing a suit worth double the price paid. There are plenty of $9.00 true bargains left for you. The four front stock tables in our big store are devoted to these suits, which formerly sold at $12, $13.50, $15, $16.50, $18, $20, $22.50 and $25, with prices plainly marked, and even though the stock is from broken lots, out of the 250 suits originally offered there is something for $9.00 you of proper size, style, etc., the cost of which will be but.....

Suits of $15, $16.50 and $18 worth. These predominate, that is to say, we have more of them than of other broken lots so that you can feel secure in selecting a sure bargain. Every suit offered is this year's stock, including many of the Hart, Schaffner & Marx fine clothes, made of pure worsteds, all wool Scotch tweeds, serges, flannels, in all the colors of a lively season—browns, grays, tans, olives, green mixtures; too many to describe. We will fit anybody, big or small, men's or young men's sizes and all at the one price,

Suits Which Sold at $20, $22.50 and $25, at $9.00

In this lot there are not as many as in the lower priced stock, yet enough to care for your requirements we believe. Styles and patterns are splendid; this year's popular shades. We are able to fit the odd sized folks too—those with short arms and legs and large waist or breast measure. Your choice

$9.00

Suits of $12 & $13 Value at $9.00

We have not an exceedingly large lot of these suits so that you can rest assured of having pick from the very best obtainable at the $9 for choice price.

The variety of fabric is much the same as the $15.00 and $16.50 suits, but they come more in the lighter weights, two-piece suits, outing styles in one, two and three button sack styles with long lapels, some with patch pockets, everyone a stylish cut embodying the more advanced styles, and offer exceptionally fine wear for the summer season.

25 Per Cent Reduction On All Our Full Lines

All the balance of our complete lines of summer and fall goods in men's and young men's clothing is offered you at one-fourth off regular prices during this sale. These are the latest shipments and offer unlimited assortment in the advanced summer and fall styles. In this department you will find everything that is good in clothing, and months ahead of anything offered in the city as concerns style and design. We have included these in our reduction sale at 25 PER CENT OFF.

This exceptional $9 sale is intended for the benefit of those living in the country as well as town folks and we desire to recommend these offerings particularly to them as being worthy of immediate attention.

Children's Clothing at 25% Off

Boys' Suits made with Knickerbocker or straight pants, pretty patterns; suits that have sold at $8.00 now $6. You will not find better values in Southern Wisconsin than our $5, $6, $7 and $8 Suits for boys. Yet we include every boys' suit in the stock at a reduction of 25 per cent. The showing this year is better than we have ever offered in the past. With each $4.00 purchase in this department you secure a 6 months' subscription free to the American Boy magazine.

TOBACCO WILL SOON NEED A GOOD RAIN

But If Dry Hot Weather Continues For More Than A Few Days Longer Crops May Be Damaged.

As soon as the farmers have finished with their haying a good soaking rain is what is needed to bring the tobacco crop along. At present the crop would not be hurt by a few more days of this hot dry weather but if it should continue considerable damage might be done to the crop. A hail storm was reported Friday last just south of Madison, near Oregon and Brooklyn.

In the trade there have been some inquiries for old binder stock but very few sales. The mid-summer dullness will probably prevail until the first part of the month of September. The Society of Equity are reported to have held a meeting at Madison recently. It is also reported that several crops have been contracted for in the town of Center.

F. S. Haines reports buying a forty three case lot of '08, packed loose in the case and a nineteen case lot of '06 assorted. Also the sale of 75 cases of '07 '08. They have one hundred and twenty people at work in their Madison and Janesville warehouses making strips.

E. M. McKinnis reports the sale of a few cases right along. Ryan Bros. are still assorting their '07 packing. They are selling a little '06 tobacco.

L. B. Carlo and Son, still have a large force working on the '07 packing. A small force are steaming at the S. B. Heddlow warehouse.

NO SHIPMENT OF HOGS THIS WEEK

Farmers Are Busy with the Harvest and It Is Too Great for Safe Transportation.

This week there will not be a shipment of hogs made. For several weeks past they have been making a shipment, but this week the farmers have been too busy with their haying and harvesting to be able to come to town. The great heat also is bad for shipping hogs, as they are liable to die before they reach the market.

Merely a Suggestion.

During the dinner hour on board a steamer the other day a passenger was much disturbed by the vulgar way in which the man who sat next to him ate his meat. At last, after watching him pick a bone in a very primitive fashion, he could control his feelings no longer, and, turning to the offending party, he said: "Don't you think you would be more comfortable if you took that out of your mouth?"—Tribuna.

Exaggeration.

The century is young; the world also young, as worlds go; and our country compared with many, is very young. Exaggeration is one of the faults to which youth is peculiarly subject—and from which age is not wholly free. To be an artist—in words, in color, with the child, on the stage, or in whatever medium—and not to exaggerate, sometimes and to some extent, might fairly be considered an impossibility—Chicago Dial.

Story of Hans Andersen.

Hans Andersen, the great Danish writer, was an excessively nervous man, and he had a very great fear of being buried alive. So great was this dread that every night when he went to bed he would place by his bedside a large piece of paper, on which was written: "I am only apparently dead."

Her Way.

The first thing she looks at may be just what the woman shopper wants, but she will never believe it until she has examined everything else.

Earthquakes Cause Panic.
Several earthquake shocks have been felt recently in the Kougo district, Africa. There have been no casualties, but the natives were panic-stricken. Many of them ran for miles and refused to return to their villages unless they received guns and ammunition.

A Home Index.
We experienced great difficulty in keeping track of bills, receipts and other important household papers, until we got an indexed letter file, such as is used in offices. Now, when question arises concerning a bill, it is quickly settled by producing the file. These are inexpensive and occupy very little room.—Harper's Bazar.

ROD YOUR BUILDINGS With Pure Copper Rods

By doing this you are sure that you are protected as there is not one record of a house being struck by lightning. Considering the cost it is cheaper than insurance, yet it is just as necessary. You cannot afford to take chances of losing your stock, your building, your family or your own life by not having your buildings rodded. Yet you do this every day you neglect to look after it. A storm may come up tonight, this very afternoon, and you are liable to be in danger any minute. Resolve to do it now and drop me a line. I will call and explain the matter to you and will rod your buildings so there is no danger whatever. Just a few short years ago in this county there were three buildings struck in one neighborhood and burned to the ground, and one house standing in the exact path of the storm escaped because the owner had prepared in time.

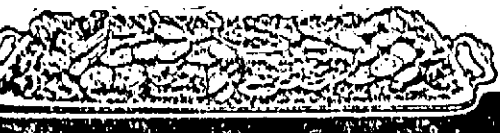

I carry the copper rods made by Dodd & Struthers, the originators, and I know they are the best in the market.

Don't fail to take this matter up before it is too late. The best time is right now. Sit down and write me a postal and I will call.

"I'll not mind matters," he said harshly. "You and I must understand each other. To be perfectly frank, everything rests with you. Call me a beast if you like. As a beast I can destroy you, and I will."

"You forget that I can go to my husband and tell him everything. He will hate me, but he will believe me," she said, facing him once more.

"The world will believe me," he scoffed.

"Not after I tell the world that you have demanded $50,000."

"But I haven't made such a demand."

"I can swear that you have," she cried triumphantly. He glared at her for a moment, his past coming up from behind with a rush that left him nothing to stand on.

"I am willing to run the risk of scandal if you are, my dear," he said after a moment, his hands clenched behind him. "It will be very costly. You have much to lose."

"I think," she said shrewdly, guessing his weakness even as he saw it, "that we can talk sensibly of the situation from now on. I am not afraid of you."

He looked at her steadily for a moment, reading her thoughts, seeing her trembling heart. Then he said dryly: "I'll do nothing for a week, and then you'll send for me."

The door in the vestibule opened suddenly and some one—yes, more than one—came in from the outside. Mrs. Cable started to her feet and turned toward the library door. Hansomer was standing close by her side.

He turned to move away as David Cable stopped to the door to look in. Cable's coat collar was about his ears, and he was removing his gloves. For a moment he stood motionless, gazing upon the occupants of the room.

Then for the first time there flashed before him the sharp point of steel which was to pierce his brain later on with deadly suspicion and doubt.

There was no mistaking the confusion of Mrs. Cable and her visitor. It was manifest that they had not expected him to appear so unexpectedly. He remembered now that on two other occasions he had found Hansomer at his house and alone with Mrs. Cable, but he had not regarded it as extraordinary. But there was a startled look in her eyes tonight, an indication in her greeting that caused him to knit his brows and lift his hand unconsciously to his temple before speaking.

He heard Hansomer say that he was just going, but that he would stay for a short chat about the banquet. Mrs. Cable turned to stir the fire with the poker, an unusual act on her part he was not slow to observe. The seed was sown.

"I brought Bobby over from the club with me—and a friend, Frances," he said, after asking Hansomer to sit down for awhile. His keen eyes noted that her hand shook as she put the poker back into its place. As he walked into the hall to throw aside his coat Frances Cable turned to Hansomer with a significant look, shaking her head in mute appeal for silence.

Bobby Higby came into the room, followed by a tall stranger, whom he presented to Mrs. Cable. Hansomer, standing near the library table, caught a glimpse of the stranger's face as he took Mrs. Cable's hand. He started violently, unable at first to believe his eyes. A chill ran through his frame, and his expression changed from wonder to consternation.

"Mr. Hansomer, my friend, Mr. Harbert,"

"I have met Mr. Hansomer," said Harbert, with a cold stare straight into the other's eyes. They were on opposite sides of the table.

"In New York," said Hansomer firmly, his eyes unflinching in their return.

He led the conversation into many lines—the war in the Philippines, the banquet, the play which Jane and Graydon were seeing. The thought of the play brought a shade of despair to his brow—pretty Miss Clegg was in the party with that "mucker," Medford.

James Hansomer had been cold with speculation every instant of the time; had felt that Harbert's condemning gaze had never left him. Apparently listening to the others, he found himself wondering what Harbert's trip to Chicago signified. Gradually it dawned upon him that his old time foe was not through with his fighting. The look in Rigby's eyes meant something, after all, and Rigby was Graydon's best friend! Harbert was in Chicago to get—and to get first! This thought flashed into the man's brain like burning metal. It set every nerve afire. His thoughts had already begun his work. Before he left the Cable home that night he would be asking his host and hostess what they knew of one James Hansomer's past.

As Hansomer arose to say good-night to the others Harbert's eyes met his with deadly directness.

"Where are your offices, Mr. Hansomer?" asked the New Yorker. There was something significant in the question.

"Mr. Rigby and I have offices in the same building," he replied. "Will you come in and see me?"

"I shall try," said the other.

To have saved his life Hansomer could not meet David Cable's questioning eyes as he shook hands with him. Cable's hands were like ice.

Outside the house, in the whirling gale, the tall lawyer breathed easier, but not securely. His brain was clogged with doubts, fears, prophecies—all whirling like mad around the ominous figure of David Harbert.

Suddenly he stopped stockstill, the bitter scowl deepening in his eyes. With an oath he turned abruptly and hurried in the opposite direction. The time had come to make ready for battle. A few minutes later, he was writing the note which created so much commotion in the house of Elias Droom.

CHAPTER XIII.

It was not until the hurried Hansomer entered the door of Rector's that the apprehension of having committed a senseless blunder came to him.

"Good heavens!" he muttered, stopping short. "What a fool I'm getting to be—meeting old Elias in a place like this! The theater crowds—everybody in town will be hereby told! Curse me, for a hopeless fool! I must get him away at once!"

Grumbling at himself, he passed into the restaurant. He offered him the choice of various tables. He selected one which commanded a view of the entrances and ordered a perfunctory "Scotch." Nervous and anxious, he was more troubled than he cared to admit even to himself. Fortunately there were not many people in the cafe, and his gaze wandering about the place soon halted before the small alcove in the east and containing a table with wine glasses, in waiting, not for a large party. The velvet, back of the cigar stand, said it was five minutes after 11.

Hansomer impatiently watched the two doors leading to the street and was beginning to wonder whether the message had reached the attendant when presently the uncouth shape of Droom appeared slinking through the so-called ladies' entrance with the shrinking attitude of one unaccustomed to fashionable restaurants and doubtful of his reception. Hansomer motioned to him.

"Just as soon as I can get my check," he was saying, at the same time beckoning to a waiter, "will you come out of this. It will be crowded in—I never thought, a stall at Chapin & Gore's will be better. Here, waiter."

He noticed that Harbert's look was uncompromisingly antagonistic, but that was to be expected. It troubled him, however, to see something like unfriendliness in Rigby's greeting.

Harbert was the man who had fought him to rout in New York. This keen, aggressive young barrister had driven him into a corner from which he escaped only by mere chance. He knew James Hansomer for what he was. It had not been his fault that the man crawled through a small avenue of technicalities and avoided the punishment that had seemed so certain. He had waged war bitterly against the blackmailer, and he missed complete victory by a hair's breadth.

Feeling the strain of the situation, Harbert, with exacting vigilance, my check "I'm in a hurry! The devil!"

As the exclamation burst from his lips there came down the narrow steps and through a door quickly thrown open by a waiter a number of gay, fashionably dressed people, all smiling and trembling with the cold. Immediately this party attracted the attention of the room. Waiters rushed hither and thither relaying the ladies of their costly lace and fur wraps and the men of their heavy overcoats. Of the expected theater comers these were the first to arrive, but presently others followed, and soon the quiet cafe of the early evening became transformed into one of bustle and excitement by the eager, animated throng. With dismay Hansomer noticed that those to whom his attention had been attracted were blocking his way to the doors. Escape was out of the question. Reluctantly he returned to his seat and ordered the clerk to take the one opposite him. Then scanning the party making its passage to the alcove he perceived three or four men whom he knew and presently, to his surprise and consternation, his son. The recognition was mutual. Graydon making his way around a small table in order to affectionately greet him. As he approached his eyes fastened themselves on his father's companion. With amazement he recognized the queer figure of the lanky, gangling Droom; but, too kind hearted and well bred to allow his features in the slightest degree to express the astonishment which he felt at sight of such a comic incongruity, the young man voiced a few kindly words to the old man, while from the table in the alcove where the smart little supper party were seated themselves Miss Cable was smiling her cheery recognition to her prospective father-in-law; then Graydon made his way back to his seat by her side.

"Why did you come here?" asked Droom, feeling somewhat akin to the proverbial fish out of water.

"Because I thought—I thought you couldn't find any other place," replied Hansomer, confusedly.

The unexpected arrival of his son and partly had disturbed his usual composure, but with his order for supper his equilibrium returned, and he went on to explain:

"To be continued."

STOP DRINKING

Orrine Destroys Desire for Drink

"How to Swear Off"

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then—

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. When a man takes a pledge voluntarily, he expects to keep it. Every man expects to keep his word, and every broken pledge costs the drunkard many a headache, but he cannot help it. He fights as long as he can, then succumbs to the craving. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure him.

Orrine is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. No other treatment for the liquor habit is sold with such a liberal guarantee.

Orrine is prepared in two forms: No. 1, a powder, perfectly tasteless and colorless, which can be given secretly in any food or drink. Orrine No. 2, is in pill form, for those who wish to be cured of the habit, and it should be taken by every one who swears off.

No matter which form of Orrine is used the guarantee is the same. The price of Orrine is $1.00 per box, mailed in plain sealed wrapper upon receipt of price. Write for free booklet "How to Cure Drunkenness" (mailed in plain sealed envelope) by The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. Orrine is sold by People's Drug Company and King's Pharmacy.
